Constipation.

Health is absolutely impossible, if constipation be present. Many serious cases of liver and kidney complaint have sprung from neglected constipation. Such a deplorable condition is unneces, sary. There is a cure for it. Herbine will speedily remedy matters. C. A. Lindsay, P. M., Bronson, Fla. writes, Feb. 12, 1802: "Having used Herbine, I find it a fine medicine for constipation. "I Thank The Lord!"

The Hundred Leaved Rose. The rose from which rose water is obtained is Hosa centifolia, or hundred leaved rose, also known as the Provence rose. It was a favorite in colonial gardens and is very fragrant. It makes a good hedge. The bloom is a rather flat, the petals closely twisted in tight little rolls round the center. To make rose water the roses are gathered in the early morning while still damp with dew. The roses are snipped off just below the calyx and either the petals pulled from the calyx or the flower broken in two, calyx and all. They are then tightly packed in a tin still and left in gentle heat on the back of the range. A bushel of roses, well packed down, will make a quart of pure, fragrant rose water. This rose is very hardy and a rapid grower. "A Yesterday was the Telegraph's off day, rose water bedge" could be grown in a few years.

Andrew Lang's Childhood. Andrew Lang recorded this concerning his childhood: "A nursery legend tells that I was wont to arrange six open books on six chairs and go from one to the other, perusing them by turns. No doubt this was what people call 'desultory reading,' but I did not hear the criticism till later and then day of November, 1905, will be opened too often for my comfort. Memory holds a picture, more vivid than most, of a small boy reading the 'Midsummer Night's Dream' by firelight, in a room where candles were lit and some one touched a plane and a young man and a girl were playing chess-the fairles seemed to come out of Shakespeare's dream into the music and the I was happy; it seemed an enchanted glimpse of fulryland and paradise. Nothing resembling it remains to me out of all the years."

A Success.

If a person determines early in life Dated, Astoria, Oregon, October, 21st, that a cheerful disposition is worth comparatively few men and women ever stop to think about success in this form, but if they will acquire the habit I will guarantee a larger measure of satisfaction than they may have met with before.—Leth Mitchell Hodges.

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Clearwater, Kans., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said that he had quick consumption.

We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him.

That was six years ago. Since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughts and colds it has no equal." 25c, 50c, and $1.00. Sold by Hart's drug store.
